

Comedy and Climate Change at Changing Hands Bookstore

Yoram Bauman

Environmental Economist, Stand-up Comedian

Yoram Bauman, the “world’s first and only stand-up economist,” returns to Phoenix to talk about his new book The Cartoon Introduction to Climate Change, co-written with award winning artist Grady Klein. With his new book, a follow up to Cartoon Introduction to Economics, he offers a humorous overview of climate science, predictions and policy, based on the latest IPCC report.

With a Ph.D in economics and as a carbon tax supporter, Yoram has become an ardent voice on the environmental economics front. In his presentation, Bauman will offer a clever take on these hotly debated topics, making the world of climate science less intimidating and gloomy while also exploring the true outcomes of the issues.

Join us for an insightful evening of laughs at Changing Hands Bookstore's new central Phoenix location.

Wednesday, October 1, 2014
7:00 p.m.

Changing Hands Bookstore (Phoenix location)
300 W. Camelback Rd, Phoenix, Arizona 85013
(dessert reception)

Parking and directions:
sustainability.asu.edu/directions

For more information about this and other events, visit:
sustainability.asu.edu/events

Seating is limited, so please RSVP for this event.

RSVP: sustainability.asu.edu/events