Julie Ann Wrigley Global Institute of Sustainability

A discussion with School of Sustainability students who completed a challenging course in Hong Kong on urban sustainability by working in teams with Chinese students from City University of Hong Kong. Hear their experiences of considering urban sustainability challenges through a new cultural lens. View the posters and policy solutions they presented to the public on issues of land use, housing, waste, energy, and conservation/biodiversity.

Cantonese food will be served. Please RSVP at sustainability.asu.edu/events/.
