

Graduate Student Research at Decision Center for a Desert City: Updates from the Center's Community of Graduate Scholars

PANELISTS:

Christine DeMyers

Moderator and 3rd Year PhD Student
School of Human Evolution and Social Change, ASU

Veronica Horvath

1st Year Master's Student
School of Sustainability, ASU

Leah Jones

2nd Year PhD Student
School of Sustainability, ASU

Krista Lawless

Graduating Master's Student
School for the Future of Innovation in Society, ASU

Michael Steptoe

1st Year PhD Student
School of Computing, Informatics, &
Decision Systems Engineering, ASU

Please join us for an annual update on research projects from DCDC's graduate research assistants.

DCDC's Community of Graduate Scholars is a year-long, one-credit course that gives our graduate research assistants an opportunity to gain skills and become leaders in transdisciplinary approaches to research, policy, and community engagement.

Students will present five-minute presentations stimulating discussions to provide input and insights into the students' work:

"Water Governance Analysis through the Stakeholder Perspective: A Case Study in Pernambuco, Brazil" by Krista Lawless

"A Visual Analytics Museum Experiment for Water Policy Analysis" by Michael Steptoe

"Decision-making and the Food-Energy-Water nexus in Phoenix, Arizona" by Leah Jones

"Water in the Arid Southwest: Public Perceptions on the Transformational Strategies for Sustainability" by Veronica Horvath

Wednesday | March 28, 2018 | 12:00-1:30 pm

EVENT LOCATION & MAP

Arizona State University
Decision Center for a Desert City
21 E. 6th Street, BYOH Suite 126B
Tempe, Arizona

<https://goo.gl/maps/JjkMgg9sMi62>

Lunch will be served.
RSVP to attend: dcdc.asu.edu/events

Decision Center for a Desert City is a unit of the Julie Ann Wrigley Global Institute of Sustainability