

Adapting to Climate Change: Ideals and Practical Challenges

Susanne C. Moser

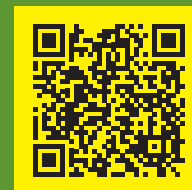

*Director, Susanne Moser Research & Consulting;
Social Science Research Fellow, Woods Institute for the Environment,
Stanford University*

What does “successful” adaptation to climate change look like? Answers to this question are a pressing need for the regional, national, and global communities. Drawing upon case examples, this presentation promises illustrative insights, but no simple answers.

Moser is an internationally recognized expert on adaptation, communication, and science-policy interactions. She has contributed to IPCC, US, and regional climate-change assessments. Moser has been recognized as a fellow of the Aldo Leopold Leadership, Kavli Frontiers of Science, UCAR Leadership, Donella Meadows Leadership, and Google Science Communication programs.

Thursday, October 31, 2013
12:00 - 1:30 p.m.

Mohave Room, Memorial Union
Arizona State University, Tempe campus
(lunch will be provided)

RSVP link: Download any free QR-Code reader app to your smart phone. Scan this code and it will take you directly to the RSVP page.

RSVP: sustainabilityevents@asu.edu

Parking and directions: sustainability.asu.edu/directions

For more information about this and other events, visit sustainability.asu.edu/events

The Sustainability Series is presented by ASU's Global Institute of Sustainability.