

The Future of Net-Zero Energy

Ed Gorman

President and CEO, MODUS Development

In this talk, Gorman will discuss the future of sustainable green homes and how to achieve the Net-Zero Energy Standard. Gorman will address the important steps to profoundly reduce energy consumption and minimize carbon footprint while increase savings by building and living in net-zero energy homes.

Gorman is an award-winning developer of Arizona's first net-zero energy townhomes. With an extensive background in real estate development that includes site acquisition, design, construction, and financing, he created a company that pioneers in high-performance buildings focusing on energy-efficient, multifamily, tech-savvy, and luxury residential developments.
