

Whither the International Climate Change Regime? The Road from Cancun

Daniel M. Bodansky

Senior Sustainability Scholar, Global Institute of Sustainability

Professor, School of Sustainability

Lincoln Professor of Law, Ethics, and Sustainability, Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law

Daniel Bodansky is a preeminent authority on global climate change whose teaching and research focus on international environmental law and public international law. He has served as the climate change coordinator and attorney-advisor at the U.S. State Department and consulted for the United Nations in the areas of climate change and tobacco control. Awards include an International Affairs Fellowship from the Council of Foreign Relations and a Pew Faculty Fellowship in International Affairs.

In this talk, Bodansky will assess the outcomes of the recent U.N. climate change conference in Cancun and discuss the past, present, and future of the U.N. climate change regime.

Wednesday, January 19, 2011
12:00 – 1:30 p.m. (lunch will be served)

Global Institute of Sustainability, Room 481

RSVP link: Download any free QR-Code reader app to your smart phone. Scan this code and it will take you directly to the RSVP page.

RSVP: sustainabilityevents@asu.edu

Parking and directions: sustainability.asu.edu/directions

For more information about this and other events, visit sustainability.asu.edu/events

The Sustainability Series is presented by ASU's Global Institute of Sustainability.