

Economic Architecture and Sustainable Communities

Robert Colangelo

Executive Director, National Brownfield Association

Mark Lautman

Founder and Principal, Community Economics Lab

A daunting array of new economic and demographic forces are threatening to undermine market and investment conditions during the sustainability movement. Join scientist and Green Sense radio show host Robert Colangelo and author and economic developer Mark Lautman to discuss how economic architecture and social-improvement initiatives combine to build sustainable communities.

Mr. Colangelo is recognized as a national expert on brownfields, an authoritative source on sustainable development, and an author of several books on the environment. Mr. Lautman has three decades of experience as a professional economic developer and has designed and managed four economic development programs.

Wednesday, January 30, 2013
12:00 – 1:30 p.m.

(lunch will be provided)

Wrigley Hall, Room 481

Arizona State University, Tempe campus

RSVP link: Download any free QR-Code reader app to your smart phone. Scan this code and it will take you directly to the RSVP page.

RSVP: sustainabilityevents@asu.edu

Parking and directions: sustainability.asu.edu/directions

For more information about this and other events, visit sustainability.asu.edu/events

The Sustainability Series is presented by ASU's Global Institute of Sustainability.