Imagine a more sustainable neighborhood!
Try this!

Draw a picture or map of your neighborhood. What’s most important to you? What do you like or not like about your neighborhood?

Look at the Changing Communities photos showing examples of ways people might choose to change different places. Can you think of other ways to improve these spaces? How could different choices be good for people, the planet, and the economy?

Now think about how you might want to make changes in your neighborhood. What could you do to make your community better today and in the future? Add these ideas to your picture!
