Their contact info is listed at https://students.asu.edu/graduate/contact.

General Graduate Record Examination (GRE) Test Scores

Send official scores directly to ASU. Test scores must be received from the agency administering the test. For more information about the GRE, refer to (www.ets.org/gre). ASU's institution code is 4007. Sustainability applicants may use department code 5199. The School of Sustainability does not set a minimum requirement for GRE scores, but the average verbal and quantitative scores for students currently enrolled in the program are in the 70th percentile.

Applicants who earned their bachelor's degree at least ten years ago are automatically exempt from the GRE requirement. All applicants are still encouraged to take the GRE because strong scores can make the application more competitive. Waiver requests will be not be approved for any other reason.

Recommendations

A minimum of three (3) recommendations are required. Applicants will enter the names and email addresses of recommenders in the online application. After that application is submitted, ASU will invite recommenders to complete an online form which includes short answer and ranking questions. Attaching a letter is optional. References should be from educators (preferred) or professionals familiar with the students' experience and capacity for graduate work. If possible, at least one recommendation should be from a faculty member.

References cannot submit letters until the online application is complete. Applicants are encouraged to submit the application by November 15 to give their references a month to submit recommendations by the final December 15 deadline.

Statement of Intent

All applicants must upload a statement of intent when completing the online application. In no more than 600 words, applicants are expected to elaborate on key research questions they wish to address or problems they wish to solve as part of their program of study. Applicants should identify potential faculty advisors and additional resources in the School of Sustainability and discuss how those resources will enable the applicants to achieve their goals. Finally, applicants should explain how their backgrounds will contribute to their success in the program and how completion of the degree will support their long-term career aspirations.
